RM200 for 6 people? Is this the New Normal in Malaysia?

Malaysian content creator Marissa Wong recently shared her dining experience in Cheras, where she and her family were surprised by a hefty bill for mixed rice. Despite the usual cost of RM7 to RM10 per plate, their total bill amounted to RM200 for six plates of mixed rice and an additional plate of fish.

Marissa humorously questioned if the chef had a degree from Oxford and Cambridge combined. She mentioned that the food was unremarkable, and the shop was known for its high prices. While their business may thrive, Marissa and her family opted not to return to the expensive mixed rice eatery. She says it might be more expensive than dining in a hotel.

Woman Who Bought New RM44,500 Louis Vuitton Bag

Malaysians are not that keen when people are showboating to others. Recently, a woman showed off that she purchased an RM44,500 Louis Vuitton bag and paid in cash. However, most are unsupportive and are sending hateful messages to her.

The client advisor had to use a cash counting machine in order to know the accurate amount of money needed for the bag. Furthermore, users state that actual rich people would purchase a Louis Vuitton bag with a gold card rather than pay it in cash. However, if someone is able to buy a RM44K bag, they are rich regardless of the payment method used.

Wow the $299 Facebook Ray Ban Stories glasses

Facebook has the habit of hurting its competitors and last week, it came out with Ray Ban Stories glasses perhaps to remind Snap Chat that it will copy everything the competitor does.

Why $299

Facebook's pair of photo- and video-capturing sunglasses is pretty much à la Snap Spectacles. They're called Ray-Ban Stories, with Ray-Ban appearing first and Facebook second in most of the product branding.

Leila fakes mc but come face-2-face with boss on same flight n

This is funny and it is a good story for a Sunday right it is about this Australian woman, Leila Soares, who found herself face-to-face with her boss on the very flight she intended to keep secret. Leila, known as @leilabelosoares shared the seven-second clip on TikTok showing the unexpected encounter.

In the video caption, Leila disclosed that she had messaged her boss, feigning sickness to secure a day off for her spontaneous adventure. But it was to be an in-flight surprise like no other. Imagine telling your boss you are having a bad covid bout and the boss finds you in the same flight? While documenting her situation, her camera briefly zoomed in on a man wearing a blue shirt—presumably her boss—getting up from his seat and appearing to be disembarking from the flight.

Will DBKL force Mr DIY to change its name to Encik Buat Sendiri?

DBKL Now Trolled by Netizens for Calling Out Sign Boards

A viral post done by DBKL, as mentioned in our previous article where netizens request they focus on infrastructural problems in the city rather than restaurant names. But, netizens are finding ways to troll the city council for trying to enforce the city's existing regulations.

Netizens state that Mr DIY may need to change their name to "Encik Buat Sendiri" as their name may not be accepted by the regulations. Furthermore, there are an abundance of foreign and local naming conventions that are brought in for discussion.

Only Next of Kin Can Claim EPF Savings of Deceased with NO Nominee

Employees Provident Fund (EPF) withdrawals for deceased members without nominees can only be requested by next of kin. According to Berita Harian, KWSP stated that for those who were married, the application can be made by immediate family members such as the children or parents, and spouses or an administrator.

For unmarried members, applications can be made by parents, siblings or the administrator.

"The next of kin must submit supporting documents such as an administration letter, probate grant, distribution order or a faraid order as attachments to the application.

"Only those who are appointed or named are eligible to make the withdrawal claim based on the order or portion specified in the documents," KWSP was quoted as saying.

Corrupt Administrat

Tun Dr Mahathir Mohamad, in a TIME magazine interview, expressed regret for opposing Prime Minister Anwar Ibrahim, alleging Anwar seeks revenge for the failed 2020 power transfer. Mahathir called Anwar a "smart operator" but accused his administration of corruption, likening him to jailed ex-PM Najib Razak over the 1MDB scandal. Mahathir explained the 2020 Pakatan Harapan collapse, triggered by a PKR faction's defection, prevented him from transferring power to Anwar.
